Prospectus

LightBox Photographic Gallery invites all
Portland area photographic artists to submit work

Deadline for submissions is Midnight, Sunday, March 11, 2018

Artists' Reception, Saturday, April 14, 6-9p.m.

In recognition of Portland Photo Month, April 2018, this group exhibit celebrates LightBox Photographic Gallery's appreciation of the Portland Photographic Community. We wish to showcase work from the Portland Photographic Community in this show. We are looking for work that exhibits the unique vision and creativity of the photographer. One image each from 30 photographers will be chosen to be featured in the exhibit.

This is the 7th year of this exhibit that celebrates the Portland Photographic Community. The exhibit has combined great work from up and coming photographers with that of established photographers from the Portland community. This year, once again, we accept submissions without charging fees. For those photographers accepted into the exhibit, we do ask for a gallery hanging fee to help contribute to the expenses of this yearly exhibit. Please read the guidelines for complete info.

LightBox is very pleased to have Zeb Andrews as juror for this years PDX 30 Exhibit.

Zeb Andrews is a Portland-based photographer who has lived his entire life in the Pacific Northwest. The majority of his work week is spent immersed in photography while working at Blue Moon Camera and Machine in North Portland. Much of his inspiration comes from the photographers and photography he sees circulate through that store on a daily basis, and he in turn loves passing that along. Zeb was an instructor at Newspace Center for Photography for seven years and frequently gives presentations to local high school and college photography programs on all things photographic. When he isn't at work or enthralled in a class lecture he can often be found on some windswept beach or quietly verdant forest, camera in hand.
